THE WOMEN OF ISIS

1 x 43'

The terrorists in the so-called Islamic State (IS) look down on women. They enslave, rape and sell women for next to nothing, but fear fighting female soldiers. In this documentary we follow the battle of two extraordinary women who fearlessly fight the brutal extremists. Vian (21) is the commanding officer at an all-female training base close to the frontline. We get a rare insight into the everyday life on base with many surprises. Few will guess what the young girls do before they go into battle. In neighboring Iraq we meet Bahar Munzir (42), a Norwegian citizen born in the Kurdistan-region in northern Iraq and fighting the same enemy, but differently. She's been a women's activist for over 20 years. That also comes with a price; she has faced numerous death threats.

LOVE-HURTS.COM

1 x 59'

For many, online dating is the preferred way to find a partner, and it's developing into the world's biggest swindle. Is this a lucrative new field for the trafficking- and drug-lords? In many eastern European countries, not only a few girls finance their studies by posting fake love letters. Those who reply find that to open a letter from a prospective partner, they have to pay, with the result that conning credulous western men in search of love has evolved into an industry. Men are not the only victims. West African criminal networks exploit vulnerable women too. One woman was ruined and forced to sell her house, while another ended up in prison - both because of a man promised he loved them. Can we know who we are dating on the Internet?

BIG BOY & LITTLE LADY EXPEDITION GREENLAND

4 x 45'

We follow the Norwegian tv-host/comedian Truls Svendsen as he is training for and completes a crossing of Greenland. His mentor is the world famous polar expedition and climbing expert Cecilie Skog. The series follows the progress and training during the year prior to, and of course the expedition. Truls, currently weighing in at 120 kg, is not in great shape, but has set himself the goal of crossing Greenland and wants to explore his own mental and physical limits. On the expedition (600 km/27 days) we follow the life of Truls and Cecilie closely. Even though they are good friends there is tension on the ice. And what Truls does not know is that Cecilie is pregnant. Something she found out a few days before the start. This exiting series shows the beauty of Greenland, and what you can do if you really set your mind to it.

A JOURNEY IN A MYTHICAL STORY BEYOND ANYTHING YOU EVER COULD IMAGINE.

THE SECRET(S) OF MOUNT ARARAT

2 x 52'

A glimmer of hope to reveal one of the most iconic secrets in the world, the mountain of pain where the remains of Noah's Ark should rest. This mythical story entangled us in a web of secrecy, intrigues, accusations, greed and deceit. In the footsteps of NAMI - or Noah's Ark Ministries International from Hong Kong - who, together with a local guide, claimed to have discovered the ark with 99.9 % certainty in 2010, we went up the mountain with this very same guide in full secrecy and got into a rollercoaster of conspiracy. We visited people involved in the search for the Ark to hear their personal, exciting stories. Scientists, religious, fanatics and locals appeared for our camera. We still feel that our journey hasn't come to an end yet. Join us in this exciting adventure!

Tradition is up against the trend in food culture, in four countries by the North Atlantic Ocean. Who would have believed that the best kept secret in the Nordic Gastronomy might be found in Greenland? Or that in the Faroe Islands we had the best and the worst food, and that in Iceland old tradition includes a blood-pudding desert, and that Norway has a meat soup police force? Taste the north Atlantic, Sagafilm's new food culture series, has opened a surprising new window to innovative gastronomy in the North and to the deep dark secrets of the past when it comes to ingredients in these countries. Taste the North Atlantic has already aired in Iceland and received great ratings and a lot of attention and was widely praised.
